

THE PRINCIPLES OF LIGHT

December 19, 1987

"The principles of Light are illumination. Illumination more than just an initiation wherein for a moment the mind in its excellence conceives of its highest level and perceives therein the great worth and value, the true pearl of great price. "

I am come and have taken upon self once again the task of reincarceration that I might be momentarily near you.

Beloved, each issuance is light receptive of each and every level of consciousness that you have and/or possess at use, and can make use of, represent exacting energies corresponding with the sending and receiving of such light rays as have contact with the consciousness. We see that the physical life expression or vital body has a light effect that can be simulated in other situations other than just the day of the sun and the movement of the hours that brings it, and then hides, giving it away.

We find that individuals respond to light consciousness, because it is that that is perceived. Perception is the key word here, not that received but perceived, for in the perception, as we come into contact with vibration and emanative light quality, we perceive then the infinitesimally small and simultaneously that that is magnanimously large,

In perspective each soul then realizes where within the chain of occurring events we find our planes being touched. What light is shed to that plane? What lessons thus engendered can be to us advantageous and, at the same time, correspond with the principles of Light.

The principles of Light are illumination, Illumination more than just an initiation wherein for a moment the mind in its excellence conceives of its highest level and perceives therein the great worth and value, the true pearl of great price [Mat 13:46]. Within each lesson that life affords we can see the same corresponding values if one would but take listen and hear these things.

When we attune to vibration it is more than that that can be heard, it can be felt. It is more than can be respondent to only the senses, it can be felt from within the center. The very center and core of the vital light being that you are corresponds to the treatment of that light.

Wherein the beginning then the dividing away comes great warfare on many levels of consciousness, preceded only by the deafness of those that were intended to hear the significance of the play upon the face of your globing, In what attempt was it that man has his education again and again afforded the opportunity that wherein the shining of the light, in a moment of illumination, he perceives the God factor, that part and/or portion of his identity that he can identify with that goes beyond the arm and embrace of even racial memory to that of light memory. Like-mindedness creates for a moment a flame, an engendering flame, uniting factor between two auras as they begin to respond to one another in linking for the light focus. And yet each individually being a light of Divine Energy can regulate that Energy. Thus, Beloved, even as with the auric pattern and the influence of the individual upon it, we are given to know that we create our happiness or unhappiness as we adjust to situations, circumstances, and often time realities, that are there, often there for a purpose and reason.

Against what can we gauge then our knowledge of the present? Do we call upon the past to see reflective in that that can be remembered and retained significant lesson? Do we go seeking in our quest then into the future when the light shall come...when the light shall come? Beloved, the greatest gift ever given unto the plane is an illuminating expression coupled with the experience. For light has been centered and directed toward your planing and globing for great, great lengths of time. Perhaps the true reflection has not yet centered. Perhaps there cannot be an echoing of light out from that which is still absorbing the light that is sent.

How often then we quest sometimes in vain attempts to have the light enter our lives only to realize that life is a light unto itself. No light is practically used. No life is afforded itself of the opportunity when it has not been a life that has been lived as a light unto the soul. We find that if we go into the illumed and inspired Word, we find that the scripture of the dividing of the light from the darkness [Gen 1:4] indicates just the beginning of the necessity of bringing all energies, positive and negative into a balanced situation and maintain that balance if at all possible to usher in the establishment of the principalities set about to bring into reality, once again, not the Armageddon aspect [Rev 16: 16), but the aspect of world focus and attention. There is a goodness genuine in man. You may see it within yourself surely, if self has revealed to you. You know of this preciousness that I speak, and if not, perhaps you have seen it in others. It can be seen in the genuine innocence of a child. It can be seen in the wisdom of those that have spent their years in earnest prayer. Sometimes we wear not the disguise, we tear away the veil and yet find ourselves still armored for the battle. Conflict over the issuance of a thousand years, a millennium of peace.

THE PRINCIPLES OF LIGHT

And in this time that you find yourselves touching with many other individuals, many other individuals' vibrations, many other individuals' emanations, as you are making attunements, whether consciously or subconsciously, to the thoughts that many other individuals at this particular time are having we find then the necessity...the necessity that peace be issued in the name of all that is sacred and holy, that man call himself away, if only for one moment, to taste that peace that passeth the understanding [Phil 4:7]. Worlds in conflict and yet centered peace that speaks within.

Call we then our attention to the experience of the great and many gifts that are given. In the lives of certain individuals historically important and significant, beyond historical accuracy, at times the lives have been afforded and the messengers that have been sent. From the very beginning the light beings that came and took entrance. We settle not for that that is left after darkness has purged and torn and laid asunder that of a world that truly has been desired of many to be perfected unto its planing and cannot be. But centering in the harmony is the necessity for the peace.

Only in peace, and only in established peace, can true knowledge excel, great wisdom come to the forefront and be the guiding focus and factor in the life. The life of an individual; you, my beloved; the life of nations; the life of the people; that which we cannot connect individually, perhaps to, at desired moment, but know that the voice of humanity calleth and always when insincerity it is called, no rebuke is thereon sent. But rather an answer to that prayer, to that plea, a lifting up of the people. And when the people are lifted up in their knowledge, they will see their gifts and find genuinely the desire to seek with the gifts, not to distract from that that shineth in the presence of the temple, not to distract from that that is ongoing at the altar of the individual soul-personality, but to reach out and connect.

The desire of the seeking soul is interconnection, receiving and sending, the reception is important. And in the moment of meditation when peace and freeing of the self for a moment (it may be fleeting), but that that openeth is therein the time that the light shines. And that light so important and numbered, not as many times in the scripture as you would think, but a sufficiency enough to indicate that illumination, the Light Experience, is that intended and inspired by the Spirit of Light to touch with man. They touch higher, but they touch man. The individual soul makes its decision according to that that is perceived and felt and heard.

Feeding the sheep [John 21:16-17], hardly...hardly a task that needs to be left to just anyone, one that does not have the care, the concern, the discipline of seeing the importance even in the correct feeding of the sheep. That there be suffering, there is not teaching therein. For the mind rebels against that, not necessarily only that that is unpleasant but that that is unrealistic.

And there is a saving power. When in reflection the light shines, we assess and call each unto their own to know where they are placed in the scheme. What task before us cannot be surmounted, accomplished, surrounded and lifted? What small...what small gift, and many gifts toward the gift will be that presented in the time and in a season?

The greatest gifts bespoken, those things of which the argument has always been to man proffered, the finer minds having discussed this at great length in many occasions, councils, and even that that is considered more sacred. They say that love is the greatest gift and many know this and feel and perceive this, but only when that love has touched you. Only when you are aware of that love, only when that love reigns and lives and flows through you. When no longer you can contain the amount of that that is within you and it overflows to the few and privileged others, or the many that can perceive of it. Know that a great blessing has been had. For filled to the brim, filled to the edge, closer to the edge, and there holding sufficient...sufficient.

When we have the gifts, there are gifts of knowing and knowledge. There are ways and orders, instructions and disciplines, configurations of those things that are to teach and show and experience upon each and every plane that you might touch. But that perhaps which has not come to your attention is that attunement is that that necessitates attainment. Centering the consciousness, of in a perception felt false and/or vain belief. The significance is beyond just importance that you can and do, and you can link that which you can focus toward. The linking is there. You can feel at a distance as you begin to perceive the I. As you begin to touch and perceive that that is the intent beyond that which shows as words and matters. That we call and hold just to the moment the feeling and the touch.

Beloved, there are those of great importance that walk near you. There are those of Divine guidance that linger near. There are those even higher that look upon this occasion toward the discipline of man's mind, and challenge that the heart not stop and challenge that the heart not stop opening and challenge that the heart not stop opening but rather resolve in itself the great goodness that can be seen. We may not touch it large and in a great way, but the significance is that it is touched and we attune to this.

THE PRINCIPLES OF LIGHT

Purpose, mission, ministry and function is to the individual. Discernment must come to each individual. And unto my children, it comes especial. Where you find yourself in this moment, perceive that a new beginning is upon us.

When the mind is challenged and turneth toward the light, that light that shines, that diminisheth not in the hour of greatest need, but that shines about to show the inspiration. Far into the inspiration we come then through the gifts to an understanding, not of imagination, but of being able to project in visualization.

When fantasy stands at one gate, unless the day deluded will be sufficient unto that occasion, we walk in step through a gate that opens brighter. We know beyond that that is even questioned, that not a great deal of significance can be attributed. The language of feeling is the greatest emotive language of the heart. There are those that will speak of many things to you, and many that will belie specific purpose and intention to draw you into something that is of no more importance often times than the very least of significances. And yet, Beloved, there is a burning for soul seeks reunition with that of its own, the grand and emphasized reunion. Force and touch with force and touch. The electricity so vital in so many ways can be of soul generate quality also.

Taking the time to focus attention and to meditate opens perception. Whether you do this with and for one another or make your attunement to that that you perceive as myself, do not...do not forget the opportunity. There are exchanges on many levels and many now await to touch with you. There are those that challenge not the integrity or the prestige aspect, but the familiar concern of those in guidance to them.

Beloved, worlds and worlds of light beyond the city of flower. We see and call each then unto their own in this particular hour, that each with the opportunities well expressed and fully given receive the blessing of the moment. Peace. And a holding peace beyond the challenge of man, perhaps a part with out of the aspect of full knowing. But for a moment, that peace. Speak quiet. Speak quiet and still the self unto listening.

Soul of man, prepare. There are many that take ominous indications that are uttered perhaps of the mouths of prophets, and perhaps otherwise, that cannot wait the time. Hold safe, hold true, for the children of light and illumination that see the great gifts and perceive of the light there in them, realize in this special moment in time the celebrate toward that of the Christie Awareness.

THE PRINCIPLES OF LIGHT

Some have called and labored, and others attach less or more, and fall in their way away from just perception and take entrance into a supposed knowing, and belabor the power and the authority of the Christie Principle itself. And of that received as a vessel, how far extended into the future, how long shall we wait that the power be seen? The full demonstration works within the life, comes with the consciousness.

Beings of light have constantly been sent around and unto the globing. Age in and age out, no age goes without the struggle that the light be received. Perhaps we have stood many times a little too impatiently, blinking the signal, sending out the signal, no one perceiving that message goes unheeded.

But, Beloved, hear me. I have given you that that should be... should be cherished. For if it has touched and is a part with you now, you are a child in this moment. But children of light and illumination are drawn to where complex ideas, associations, involvements, the seeking, the questing for understanding. We cannot cast an eye save in discernment. Surround not that that you cherish and hold and find import with, to know the inner commerce of the higher only. Watch in the nocturnal hours, for many of you are being fully challenged. That which will not pass and are under merit, and will not allow you to step up the progressive pathway, that holds you with a thought. An idea, perhaps, with greater illumination around it could be seen more clearly and form then a new thought, for the new day awaits and in a new time.

Advent in preparation, we come nigh into the nativity of awareness, there in silence looking for... looking for the gift. Some would call Him the Prince of Peace, others would see chaos and strife. Others would perhaps form an idea, a message given from generation to generation, and yet each life that manifests a light of high enough quality to direct and to realize, to be able to impart to individuals, must share in responsibility of that feeding.

There is, Beloved, many, many great ones that wait to be touched and signaled. We do not know the signal, for it flashes... it flashes. Some hear it as a warning. But I hear it as a heralding, the fulfillment of prophecies given to man and cherished by those who sought in the word and in the symbol and true understanding.

In preparation then each is challenged, and if you cannot find that a part of yourself to be a gift, then be a part of the gift. For there is a touch for and with you, child. Many of you... many of you have access to those that herald light. Understand that there are different, many different energies and many different variations of light. Only the highest and the purest, the most crystalline of illuminating experiences, especial enough for you. The light that bathes, that baptizes, that lifts up, that makes whole and complete, that giveth solace in times that disconsolation there abounds, that lifts up and prepares, that educates, and shows the way of the working for those that live and walk and have their being touching with the light. A faith beyond even questioning for all moments recorded of Divine contact and inspiration are truly touched as light experiences. Those that have and are given special charge to touch for a moment across the veil are light bearers through the experience.

Where there is darkness the light shall move in its time, diminishing, diminishing and pushing on the hand of the clock through a cycle that never ceases. Care to and draw, focus, Beloved, toward continuing to educate the self and the soul. Continue to feed the soul in touch. .in touch.

There is a glow about and among you, and a movement, a challenge. When we cannot fulfill the presentation of our gift in its readiness, then we come forth finding creatively by the use of the imagination the instrument of the creative principle even, the Divine touch that cometh after the shower, that these be provisional, these be the providing set. There are many souls that you are to touch, Beloved. There are many who wait to hear at a distance.

When you take entrance fully through the gate, when you come unto the gate of the year, and in the newest coming of that year, you will have arrived by decisions, feelings, nudgings, expressions, where you will find yourself according to your response with and to it. In an hour of great peace the understanding comes. And that that moves is made to cease and that which makes loud to hush. Out of darkness the Light appears. In the symbol of a star, in the symbol of a life, in the symbol of an experience and initiation, each will find their way unto the understanding. And those that come closest to it shall walk the way from Bethlehem to Calvary, that we know every step and in our hearts trace it again and again.

Other lights will fill the sky, other stars will be seen and understood. Movement through the heavens even excepted, no greater light has ever shined, then shines in your mind upon your life with your light tonight.

Beloved, may you go forth in peace, in light, and in love. There are those who touch with you that you would touch greater. A healing that you would heal more fully. A special gift embodied in the desire.

Peace.
